USE TWITTER SEARCH

1. Twitter Search

Twitter Search offers some pretty decent search tools that you can use to narrow down what you're looking for;

they also follow trending topics so you can see what's hot fast.

Similar Twitter search engines:

TOP TEN HASHTAGS BY EDUCATORS

Twitter is a great resource for learning about flipped teaching. Everyday, people tweet hundreds of tips, resources, personal stories, pose questions, and float ideas about flipped teaching.

(click the # hashtag to see the Top Tweets for that tag, no Twitter account necessary)

1. #flippedclass

2. #flipclass

Both of these tags turn out terrific tweets everyday with resources, ideas, links, and conversation.

3. #flippedlearning

Similar to the above, but also with some unique content and users.

4. #flippedtip

Turn to Your Neighbor tweets a tip about flipped classrooms every work day. Tweet your own or fill out the flippedtip line form here and we will tweet it.

5. #peerinstruction

Tweets about Peer Instruction from users all over globe. Peer Instruction is one (of many) research-based methods for flipping your class.

6. #edchat

Lots of great tweets about current trends in education – several tweets a day, not necessarily specific to flipped teaching, but I always find a gem or two in this stream.

7. #edtech

One of the most popular hashtags for education, tons of content-rich tweets per day on all things related to #edtech, will often find #flipclass and #edtech tags together in one tweet.

8. #teachers

Tends to direct content toward teachers, lots of tweets and includes tips, but requires some heavier filtering than the above tags. I often find flipped class resources in this stream.

9. #highered

This hash tag generates less on flipped learning, but a lot of content related to current trends in blended learning and online learning.

10. #screencast

Often has links to screencasts to view, so you can ideas for your own. Also has tips about screencasting, lecture capture, and software.

The screenshot shows the iTunes U app page. At the top left is the app icon, an orange square with a white graduation cap. To its right, the text reads "iTunes U" in a large font, "Apple" in a smaller font, and a rating of four and a half stars with "(15)" reviews. A blue "OPEN" button with a plus sign is located in the top right corner. Below this is a preview of the app's interface, which features a grid of 15 course thumbnails. The thumbnails include titles such as "Yale: Measuring Agriculture's Impact", "HACC: Intermediate Algebra", "How Science Works", "Start writing essays", "Introduction to Your Studies", "TED: The Edge of Knowledge", "PHYSICS", "Anatomy and Physiology", "Khan Academy: Biology", "LA TROBE: Writing History", "SPC: Advanced Composition", "ARKANSAS: Spanish I", "saylor.org: Modern Art", "OHIO STATE: Life in the Universe", "MIT: MIT & K12", and "UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD: Challenging the Canon".
