CCleaner

The first thing I put on every computer I buy is CCleaner and so I have used it for many years. It cleans out all my browsers, system files as well as my applications such as my Internet and utilities. It's a well-rounded program. With CCleaner I also use Malwarebytes; between the two programs I keep my computer working without any problems. Yomar Cleary, VP, Big Bear Computer Club

CCleaner is a trustworthy, reliable program for safely cleaning the Registry, cookies, orphaned files, and leftover installation files -- among other things -- from your system to help keep it running fast and smoothly. There is a paid version, but I use the free one. It is updated frequently and I've seen it recommended by many computer "experts," including those who write for Windows Secrets. AdwCleaner

Dentist's Office Manager

*We had malware we could not remove.
I called Judy for help. (BobG had just given an Avast presentation to my group and recommended AdwCleaner but to be careful when using it.)*

It removed their malware....

NOTE: Make sure you only click on the app you want to remove. It sometimes lists other apps that you don't want to remove.

The screenshot shows the AdwCleaner 6.000 software page on the ToolsLib website. The header features the AdwCleaner logo (a blue circle with a white bug and a green circular arrow) and the text "AdwCleaner 6.000 by ToolsLib · 5 days ago · fr33tux · /". Below the header, a large box displays "131,308,862 Downloads". Underneath, there are two tabs: "Description" and "Changelog". The "Description" tab is active, showing the text "AdwCleaner is a free removal tool for :" followed by a bulleted list of what it removes: Adware (ads software), PUP/LPI (Potentially Undesirable Program), Toolbars, and Hijacker (Hijack of the browser's homepage).

Below this is a list of three bullet points: 'Hand picked software titles - only the best!', 'Tested for malware, adware and viruses', and 'No added bundles, installers or toolbars'. At the bottom of the main area are two orange buttons: 'BROWSE SOFTWARE' and 'LATEST UPDATES'. TeamViewer

I feel that TeamViewer is the best remote access program because it's free, cross-platform, has a run-as-needed version (doesn't have to be installed and running all the time) that's a "get help only" option, can be set up to require new password every time the program runs, and has the included features of file transfers (both ways), plus audio and video capabilities.

TeamViewer

IrfanView

The utility I find invaluable is IrfanView. Virtually every photo that has been on my Web site (<http://nuvolini.com>) has been processed by this program. That is thousands of photos. It's batch conversion feature allows you to rename and resize them for the site. Also, being a registered user, when I have a question about the app, Irfan usually responds within 24 hours. I recently reviewed it on it's 20th anniversary.

Alarm ++ - http://12noon.com/?page_id=27

- From Marshall DuBois' review in the Sarasota TUG Monitor (sent to editors via PUSH in August)
- This is a great reminder program which will help you remember many things you usually forget.
- Every day I rely on this little gem. Think of something in your home that you value, is small and generally goes unnoticed until you discover its absence. I am really glad when I'm reminded of a family member or friend's birthday by a reminder popping up. I used to feel bad when I overlooked someone, especially a youngster.

Utilities Recommended at the Presentation

Alarm ++ - http://12noon.com/?page_id=27

- The software is perpetual in that you can have reminders (alarms) appear when scheduled for as long as you wish. An alarm will appear and launch a program on a specified date/time. For example, I have an alarm for the STUG TNT (Tips 'N Tricks) page.
- The alarm appears on screen and in the background it opens the “Interesting Internet Finds” in my web browser which eliminates the need to hunt for a URL each week.
