What Techboomers Used to Be

- Over 100 courses on popular websites and apps
- Partnerships with libraries and tech-training organizations
- A “forever free” model that can be utilized by the average person, or trainers

What Techboomers Has Grown Into Now

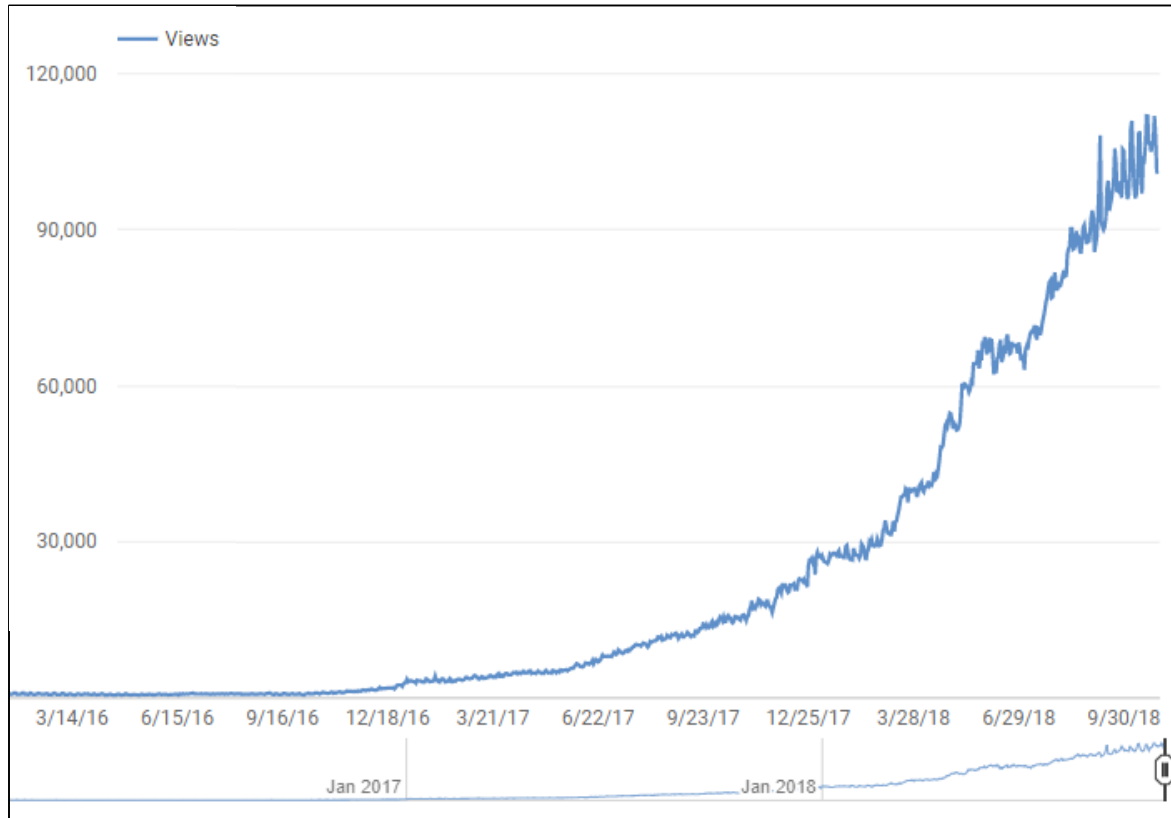

The screenshot shows the TechBoomers website interface. At the top left is the TechBoomers logo. Next to it is a search bar with the placeholder text "Today I want to learn about...". To the right of the search bar are social media icons for Facebook, Twitter, and YouTube, followed by a green "Take the Tour" button. Below the search bar is a navigation menu with the following categories: "Access 100+ Free Courses", "Shopping Online", "Online Entertainment", "Social Websites and Apps", "Useful Websites and Apps", and "Technology Basics". The main content area features several article cards. On the left, a large card titled "Is Groupon Safe? How to Spot Fraud + What Not to Buy on Groupon" includes a sub-headline "Whenever a website offers great items at great prices, it can be hard to believe that it's true (we all [...])" and an image of a credit card on a keyboard. To its right are two smaller cards: "Best 7 Sites Like Ancestry to Research Your Family History" with a tree icon, and "Best 9 Websites Like StubHub for Cheap Tickets" with a ticket icon. At the bottom, there are four more cards: "The GDPR Simplified with Checklist for Site Owners to Stay Compliant" with a padlock icon, "How to Make Your Facebook Account Completely Private" with a laptop icon, "Facebook" (with 20 tutorials) with a Facebook icon, "Buying on eBay" (with 23 tutorials) with an eBay icon, and "Amazon Course" (with 17 tutorials) with an Amazon icon.
